Together can you find items around your home following the descriptions below?

- Find an object that is your favourite colour
- Find something that makes you happy
- Find something that makes a sound
- Find something that smells
- Find something which you can taste

When finding the variety of different objects you could both discuss where they came from? What they look like? How they smell? How does the object feel, is it soft, hard?

This activity provides lots of learning opportunities for children such as discovering and opening up conversations about the world when collecting items, noticing different sensory aspects such as taste, feel and sound and discussing what makes them happy. You can extend this by discussing a variety of different emotions such as what may make them excited, sad, angry, surprised, embarrassed and how it makes them feel. Look in the mirror together and mimic how those expressions might look.
